THINK! GIVE!

Last Monday a drive was started to collect funds that will help some crippled child, struck with poliomyelitis, recover and take his place in the world with his more fortunate playmates.

Last year the United States suffered one of the worst polio epidemics in the nation's history. More than 40,000 persons were struck with this crippling enemy.

Have you ever stopped to think that maybe you could help prevent some of these cases, or that you may be able to help some of these children walk again after they have been attacked by one of the worst and deadliest foes to health, that exists. Yes, by just contributing a dime or more you help stamp out some of the effects of this plague.

Some of the victims of polio recover without any crippling effects, but others are to continue through life with scars of the hard-fought battle; some may wear braces for the rest of their lives; others may stay in an iron lung a greater part of the time; then still, there are some who may never get the chance to put their feet on the ground again.

The epidemic of last year is over. But for thousands who must live with the disease the tragedy of polio, has hardly begun. Of last year's victims, 17,000 will remain for years to come.

Patient care alone in 1949 cost $31,000,000 in MARCH OF DIMES funds. HOW MUCH WILL BE NEEDED IN 1950?

No one can answer that question with any degree of accuracy, but when you look at last year's figures you must realize that your contribution has to be greater than ever before if anything is to be done to aid the unfortunate victims of polio. The National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis must have funds if it is to fight this dreadful, crippling disease.

The time to help is now until January 31 while the March of Dimes campaign is in full swing. The time to think about polio is TODAY, because tomorrow may be too late. We must plan our defense against this enemy.

So, now you are being asked to contribute, give and give unstintingly. JOIN THE MARCH OF DIMES.

Think! It may strike you next. GIVE!

A HELP FOR WOMEN VOTERS

A League of Women Voters will be formed in Hancock County in the very near future, and with the advent of this organization will come a more learned, intelligent and militant group of women voters.

A preliminary meeting has already been held and on February 14th, the organization meeting will take place, at which time a representative of the National League will be present to discuss the many phases of the work of the woman voter.

In the past little has been done to properly inform the women of this county of their many rights of citizenship, of the various phases of the government, a better understanding of the constitution, of the use of an intelligent vote, all of which eventually mean better government.

With the formation of the League of Women Voters, it is to be anticipated that many benefits will be derived by the women of this county, giving to them a clear understanding of politics, and of the many problems which face their governments today, local and national. The women of Hancock County should not just sit back and let the men be the only ones who have any actual understanding of the problems confronting our system of government, they too, should seek enlightenment, so that they may be able to participate in intelligent discussions of its many problems.

Ladies do not be satisfied with a sparse knowledge of what is going on around you; come out and join the Women's League of Voters and obtain a definite knowledge and understanding of the world and its politics, and from now on regard it as your duty to intelligently participate in the affairs of your governments.

DON'T DROP THAT MATCH

From trees, the products of our forests, comes many of the necessities of life. Without them we would not have paper, furniture, homes and many other articles so necessary in our everyday living, yet so little thought is given to the care and preservation of so useful a product, and each year millions of acres of young trees are destroyed by forest fires.

The careless actions of picnickers, passerbys and thoughtless people set the 200,000 or more fires which destroy more than 30,000,000 acres of timber lands each year.

Just think! 500 forest fires a day. How can we justify such shameful waste? The causes of forest fires cannot be laid to natural causes. Of course some are caused by lightning, but then how many are the work of the human hands, careless with matches, cigarettes, etc.?

Carelessness causes the loss of millions of dollars each year in natural resources, and too not only in our resources, but how many human lives, those of the fire-fighters, are lost through this careless action?

Every time you drop a match where timber and other resources surround you, remember that every year the pulp-size trees destroyed might be a twelve months supply of newsprint for every newspaper in the United States, over three million tons; that the saw-mill timber might build homes for a city with over one half million population; that watershed cover is destroyed causing soil erosion and great loss of water for domestic irrigation and electrical power; that farms, livestock, range and essential grain are burned; that scenic landmarks, beautiful recreational areas and wildlife are all named to be lost; and, too, do not forget the human lives. If you remember all of these things, you will not be so eager to drop a lighted match or cigarette without first making sure that it is out, or that it is dropped in a safe place.

One reason for a decline in forest fires, but there are many others, is that in 1930 a record year in fire prevention, and in doing so you will be helping to prevent wanton destruction of one of our greatest natural resources we, in Hancock County, have.

Exhibits Do Not Tell Full Story Of Cotton Use Say Robinson

Two attractive representatives of Mississippi display an interest in cotton fiber made in Mississippi and now on display in the state exhibit in the International Trade Mart, New Orleans. Shown are Miss Jean Robin (left) of Bay St. Louis, Exhibit Hostess, and Miss Elizabeth Cole of Ruth, Trade Mart receptionist.

The bale of cotton which might have symbolized Mississippi's industrial efforts a generation ago, has been replaced by a diversity which surprises out-of-staters visiting the state's impressive exhibit in the International Trade Mart, New Orleans.

All told, over 60 different manufacturing activities now have representative products in the unique international marketplace. The variety of goods testifies to the great industrial strides made by Mississippi during the past several decades.

COTTON IS STILL KING

Cotton is still the king among the state's products but not in the raw. It forms the basis for a flourishing textile industry which converts the raw cotton into numerous lines of attractive clothing. From its most valuable raw material, enterprising Mississippians are turning out cotton clothing ranging from sturdy work clothes to stylish dress blouses and skirts.

The fifteen textile manufacturers represented in the Trade Mart exhibit, according to Miss Jean Robin, charming exhibit hostess of Bay St. Louis, don't tell the full story of the cotton industry in Mississippi. The latest count showed 100 Mississippi firms engaged in the production of cotton clothing.

SEEKING A MARKET

Food products comprise an important part of the Trade Mart exhibit. Shrimp and oysters from the thriving Gulf Coast, canned vegetables, pickled food products, and sauces, are just a few of the edibles Mississippi industry is seeking to market through the New Orleans marketplace.

Equally important in the Trade Mart exhibit are the wood products, ranging from tool handles to highly finished sewing machine cabinets, cedar chests, and skillfully carved decoys. Allied with Mississippi's flourishing lumber industry are the numerous lines of fiber and insulating boards on display for foreign, and domestic buyers visiting the Mart.

MISSISSIPPI'S INDUSTRIES

But the newfound diversification does not stop here. Top-grade automobile tires from a busy factory at Natchez, glass jars and bottles from a Jackson industry, complex radio testing equipment produced in Greenwood, steel well casings, ceramics, power mowers, steel traps, silk hosiery and lingerie, metal zippers, and pharmaceutical products all join in the impressive "made-in-Mississippi" parade. Even the relatively new rayon industry has made a foothold in the state and is turning out quality wearing apparel.

NEW RESPECT

Many of the thousands who visited the exhibit since its opening in June, 1949, couldn't believe their eyes, Miss Robin said. "It's awfully hard for them to realize," she com-

Now "Doc" Can Read The Sunday Papers

The missus had the sniffles last Sunday morning, so I went to "Doc" Emerson's to pick up some cold tablets. When I got there, "Doc's" drugstore was closed, but there was a sign on the door saying that Red Smith's was open.

When I got to Red's I asked what's up and he says, "Not much business on Sundays, so 'Doc' and I decided to alternate every week staying open. This way one of us can rest, read the Sunday papers like other folks—and we won't be letting anyone down, who might need something."

More and more, Americans are voluntarily cooperating to get things done. Take how the beer retailers have volunteered to adopt the Brewers' Self-Regulation program. For a long time now, they have been seeing to it that their businesses are kept clean and law-abiding—a credit to the community.

Club Members Can Compete In 1950 Contests

By MISS MADGE ALLRED

The State Home Demonstration Council is again sponsoring seven different contests in 1950. As a home demonstration club member you are eligible to compete in any or all of these.

Look over the list and make up your mind which ones you're going to include in your year's home demonstration work. Don't say you can't do any of the things on the contest list. Last year's winners were club women, just like you, who said, "That sounds interesting to me and I know I can turn in a good report if other club women can."

Rules and requirements for the contests are:

1. Improved Practices Program Contest.
2. Marketing Contest.
3. State 4-H Advisor's Contest.
4. Better Homes Record Contest.
5. Kitchen Improvement Contest.
6. Story Writing Contest.
7. Cotton Style Revue.

TIME, MONEY AND FOOD

If you work away from home or have small children to care for, you probably often find it hard to find time to prepare the tasty and nutritious, yet economical, meals you'd like.

Here are a few tips that might help you with this problem.

Compare the cost of those processed foods you buy—canned, frozen and dried, with fresh foods. If the difference in cost is larger, it may pay to cook some the night or day before, store them in the refrigerator and reheat for serving. You can let a stew, pot roast or soup simmer or beans bake slowly while you're doing other things.

Baked cookies, cakes or bread that include fruit, brown sugar, molasses or honey do not dry out as rapidly as others. When you have a chance to bake, make an extra supply including these ingredients.

VEGETABLES LOSE VALUES

Vegetables usually should not be cooked ahead and reheated because they lose flavor and nutritive value. Time may be saved by washing, trimming and preparing fresh vegetables for cooking in advance, if they're kept properly covered and refrigerated. Raw vegetables served as relishes or in salads save time and vitamins.

For a main dish consider such quick-cooking protein foods as fish, cheese and eggs.

For dessert a fruit bowl, filled with plentiful fruits in season or from your pantry shelves, will be economical of both time and money.

REFLECTING ROOF

A shiny insulated roof reflects heat from the sun and not only helps keep the house cool in summer but helps prevent loss of heat from the house in winter. Engineers have found this to be true of shiny aluminum roofs, for example.

Although such a roof does not admit the heat of the sun to help warm the house in winter, less heat escapes from within the house with a saving in fuel. This is due to the reflective insulation which turns back inside heat.

CROSS-COUNTRY RELAY SET FOR FEBRUARY 22

A cross country relay will be held February 22 for the public schools of Hancock County. This includes the high schools and elementary grades.

The distance for high schools is ten miles with ten boys on each team; each boy runs a distance of one mile.

The elementary schools enter ten contestants in the two and a half mile race; each entrant runs a quarter of a mile.

This run sponsored by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, who furnish the sixty medals for the races, will be a repeat of last year's athletic event, which was the first of its kind ever to be held in the South.

This year as last year there will be trophies awarded to the schools whose teams finish first, second or third in each division.

In 1949 Dedaux was first; Bay High, second; Sellers, third; and Kiln, fourth in the high school division. Waveland was first; Lees-town, second; Logtown, third; and Lakeshore, fourth in the elementary group.

Most of the schools in both divisions have started light training in anticipation of this year's relay.

Douse your campfires with water and cover them with earth before leaving; this helps prevent forest fires.

Walking with long leg braces and crutches, Tommy Senter, seventeen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Senter of Aberdeen, happily rejoins schoolmates at Aberdeen High school after a year's battle with infantile paralysis. He has been named March of Dimes Chairman for High School Students by Dr. Felix J. Underwood, State Campaign Chairman.

Rev. Johnson Attends College of Preachers

Rev. Charles R. Johnson, pastor of Christ Episcopal church, was one of a specially selected group of ministers invited to attend Washington Cathedral's college of Preachers for a refresher course in the church's teaching ministry, January 9 through the 14th.

The sessions are sponsored jointly by the College of Preachers and the Department of Christian Education of the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal church.

SELECTED BY BISHOP

The weekly training groups include clergymen from various dioceses in the Episcopal church. These men who come from all parts of the country are selected by their bishops to attend a session during the 1949-50 term at the college.

Planned as a five-day workshop, the conferences are conducted by the staff of the college under the direction of its warden, Canon Theodore O. Wedel, and by the staff of the National department of Christian Education. Ministers receive the various tools and techniques which may be helpful to them in giving their congregations a thorough education in the church school, as well as from the pulpit, from these work-shop sessions.

Wright Attends Crop Services

Gov. Wright will represent Mississippi at the National Dedication of the CROP program, which will be held in the port of New Orleans January 20. It is announced by W. F. Bond state CROP chairman. Leading civic groups of New Orleans are sponsoring the dedication which will climax the 35-state campaign including Mississippi.

HIGHLIGHT OF DEDICATION

Highlight of the dedication will be the assembly of the miniature box-cars representing the actual carloads of food donated by individual CROP county committees in participating states. The completion of Mississippi's campaign will coincide with the National Dedication.

It was pointed out by Mr. Bond, who will attend with Gov. Wright and others from the state, that the sponsorship as represented by the New Orleans Board of Port Commissioners, International Trade Mart, New Orleans Cotton Exchange, Steamship Association, Board of Trade and Greater New Orleans, Inc., is indicative of the civic interest shown CROP throughout the nation.

CHRISTIANITY IN ACTION

"Had it not been for the backing of the state's leading farm and civic leaders as well as our churches, CROP would not be the success it is today," Bond said. "This food represents Christianity in action—a true Christian regard for those for whom there has been no peace, no return to freedom from want and fear."

"With our Governor representing Mississippi at the National Dedication it is my urgent appeal that our CROP campaign shall be pushed with greater effort, especially in churches and church related groups, during the remaining days so as to insure a creditable record for our state."

Heating the home is only one of the many jobs natural gas does for you—efficiently and economically.

Natural Gas Service Is a Planned Service

Gas company technicians are continually exploring for new gas fields, drilling new wells, building new processing plants and compressor stations, and laying hundreds of miles of new pipe lines. Soil Conservation

By C. L. BISHOP
Soil Conservation Service

Tunas Cuevas, a farmer three miles east of Catahoula, who is cooperating with the Hancock County Soil District, has surveyed terraces on 10 acres of crop land recently. Terracing is one of the first steps toward a complete land-use conservation program planned for this farm with the assistance of the Soil Conservation Service technicians.

Cornelius T. Favre, a cooper, one mile north of Kiln, is proud of his permanent pasture. "My cows have grazed in the pastures all the year without any additional feed. A cattle dealer told me last week they were the fattest cows he had looked at in the county. My White Dutch Clover pasture was grazed from early February until September, each acre supporting two cows; then I turned them on common lespedeza pasture which grew about a foot high. My cows couldn't eat all the clover before it matured and they didn't get up a stand until it rained recently. The fescue is large enough to graze but the clover is just coming up. I want to let this pasture become well established before I turn my cows in it," Favre added.

Forty additional farms will be mapped and planned during 1950. Thirty applications for farm plans have been received in the work unit office. Ten of these farms have been mapped and three farms planned.

Planting season is now on hand. Fifty thousand slash pine seedlings were delivered to 4-H Club members and District Superintendents last week; the seedlings were furnished by the Mississippi Forestry Commission Nursery. Applications were made last November.

COUNTY AGENTS' NOTES

Prune Fruit Trees Develop Shape

By Howard F. Simmons

PRUNE FRUIT TREES

Prune fruit trees and grape vines this month. Although pruning may be done any time during the dormant season, January is considered the best time, especially for grapes. Peaches and plums trained to the modified leader system instead of the open, center system make stronger, more vigorous and higher yielding trees.

To train young trees to the modified leader system, space three to five scaffold limbs from six to eight inches apart vertically on the trunk, the lowest limb being about 18 inches from the ground. These will form the frame-work of the tree.

Small trees rarely require pruning when set out. Larger trees should be headed at a height of 30 to 35 inches, and lateral branches cut back to two buds.

Pruning of one and two-year-old trees during the dormant season consists mainly of thinning out the smaller branches and moderately cutting back the larger branches just above a bud or branch.

DEVELOP NATURAL SHAPE

Apples and pears are trained similarly to peaches except they are allowed to develop a more natural shape with six to eight scaffold limbs for the frame-work of the tree.

Bearing trees which have been properly trained to form the desired shape and frame-work will need only light annual pruning. For the first few years after the trees begin bearing, pruning should consist of removal of any dead, diseased or crossing branches, and a moderate heading back of larger branches.

Older trees will require heavier pruning to stimulate the growth of new fruiting shoots, as well as to maintain a well balanced tree.

Another January orchard job is to control scale by spraying all fruit trees with one part of emulsion to 2 parts of water.

GREENS FOR MARKET

Turnips can be very successfully grown in Mississippi as a Spring or Fall crop. This vegetable may be grown either for "greens" or "roots" or as a combination crop when both greens and roots are sold as bunched turnips. The turnip is a cool weather crop and will be of better quality and likely to be more profitable when grown on a commercial basis as a fall, winter, or early spring crop.

Mustard, too, is a cool weather crop and will give best production and quality when grown during the cool season of the year; however, mustard will not stand as much cold.

weather as turnips. Both the smooth or broadleaf and curlyleaf types can be successfully grown in the state.

Collards are a favorite leafy vegetable with many persons. It is well adapted in the state and can withstand more cold weather than turnips, mustard or spinach. In fact, a little cold weather or a few frosts seem to improve the flavor of this vegetable.

Spinach, like turnips, mustard and collards, is also a cool weather crop, and when the plants become established in the soil, it too, can withstand considerable cold weather without severe damage. Both the smooth and curlyleaf types can be grown in the state without difficulty. Note soil requirements under "soils."

SOIL

A loose, fertile, well-drained loam or sandy-loam soil is recommended for leafy vegetables of these types. Soil containing some organic matter will be very beneficial. For the spring crop, good drainage is very essential, however, for the fall and winter crops, soil with some moisture holding capacity, but well drained, would be suitable. Some bottom lands are ideal for fall crops.

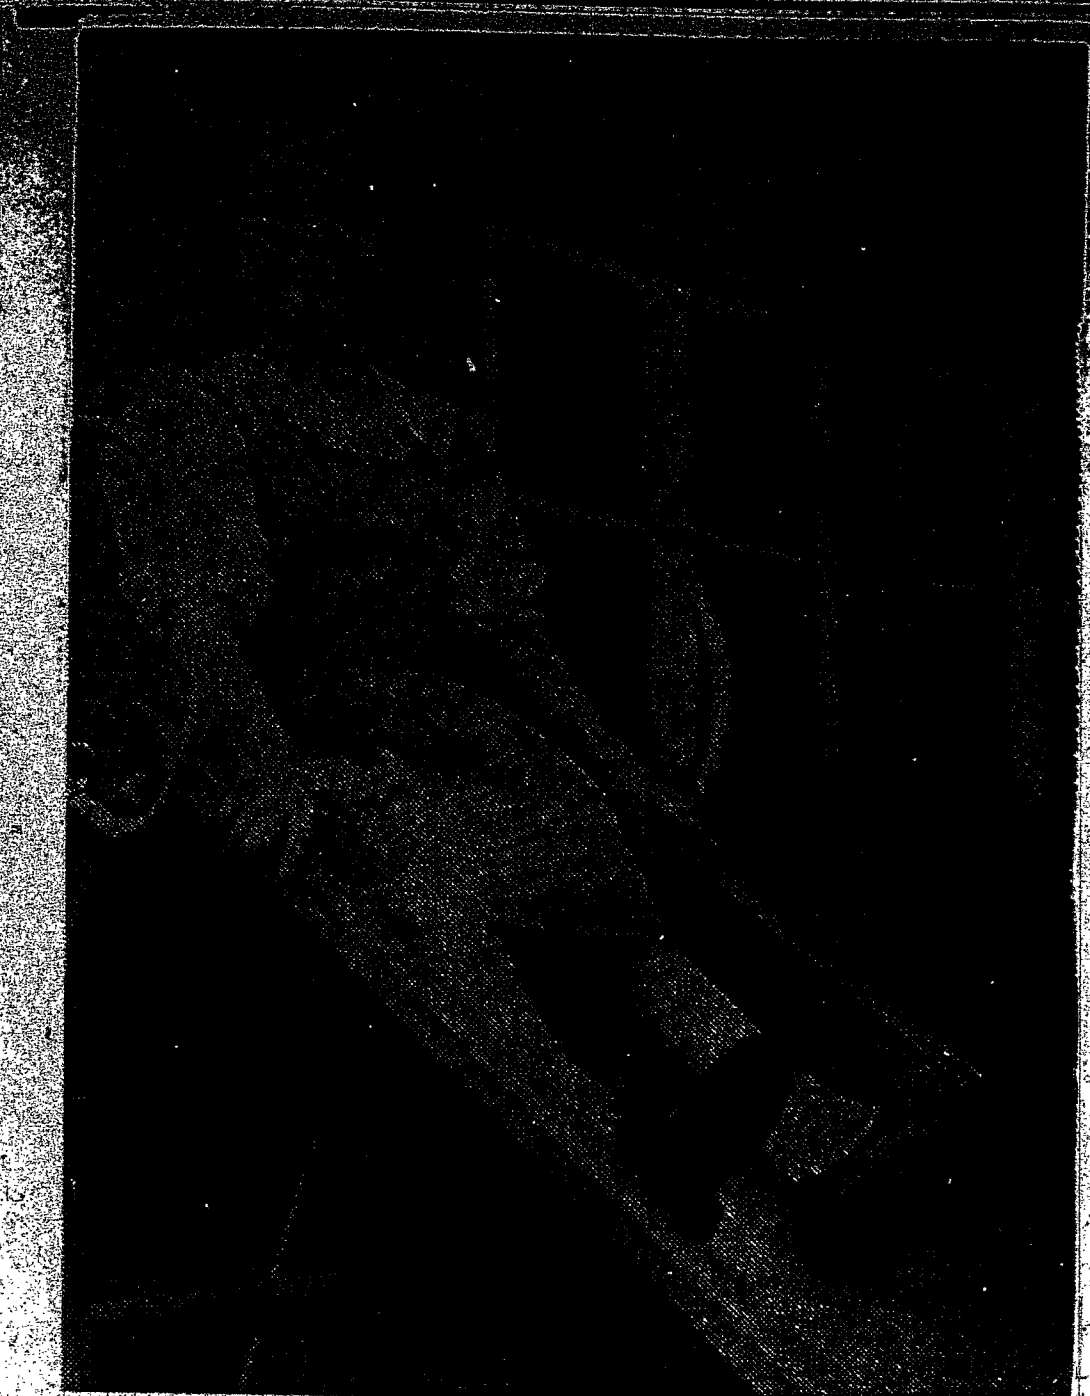

FERTILIZER

Leafy vegetables such as turnips, mustard, collards and spinach require a quick, continuous growth for best quality. The element Nitrogen is especially needed for the production of these leafy vegetables to give good color and crispness to the leaves. Use 800 to 1200 pounds of balanced fertilizer such as 5-10-5 per acre before planting and when plants are 4 to 6 inches tall, side dress with 32 pounds of nitrogen per acre (200 lbs. of nit. of soda or 100 lbs. of amm. nitrate).

INSECTS

In mustard and turnip watch for lice, flea beetles and harlequin cabbage bugs. In collards look for harlequin cabbage bug; in spinach little insect damage may be expected. For control measures get Extension Circular No. 145 from your county agent.

Vegetables of these types are bunched, tied with string, raffia, rubber bands or similar material and thoroughly washed in clean water before bringing to market in crates or hampers; or turnips and mustard may be carefully stacked in the truck without being placed in containers. Only well-formed plants, roots or leaves should be harvested. Watch for insect and disease damage and discolored leaves; market only the best. If weather is warm an hauling distance is over 50 miles, crushed ice will be needed for protection, because delay on leaves starts immediately after harvest. Ice is placed in the middle and on top of greens in each crate or hamper and between layers and on top of stack when handling in the bulk. Cover load with tarpaulin while enroute.

Nancy Cleveland plays again after recovery from a severe attack of infantile paralysis last summer. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cleveland of Meridian, Mississippi, Nancy is not only in school, she has been appointed by Dr. Felix J. Underwood to serve as State Chairman of the Children's Division of the 1950 March of Dimes. Contributions to the March of Dimes in former years helped Nancy get well.

Her treatment, requiring 24-hour nursing service, was expensive. Her family couldn't pay for this without denying their other children's needs. But her County Chapter of the National Foundation, with March of Dimes money, paid the cost, just as County Chapters have come to the rescue of polio victims all over the country.

HONOR MRS. ESTAPA AT SHOWER

Mrs. G. C. Romanoff was hostess Thursday, January 12, at a surprise stork shower complimentary to Mrs. Bert Estapa, at her home on Carroll Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Byrd entertained at an old fashioned country-style supper complimentary to a group of Railway Mail Clerks and their families last week.

The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Anderson, and children of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller and children, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Davis, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Romanoff, and son, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Estapa and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Rutherford and children.

Local Taxpayers' Share Of Program Is $1,896,300

If Congress should adopt in full the 42.4-billion-dollar budget proposed by President Truman for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1951, Hancock County taxpayers will be required to pay out approximately $1,896,300 as their share of the cost of this spending program.

This estimate has been made by the Mississippi budget recommendations submitted to Congress. The MEC estimates that Mississippi's share of the proposed budget is $301,316,900. This figure is based on the fact that Mississippi residents and taxpayers presently bear 71 per cent of the total federal tax burden.

The President's suggested budget, Mississippi shows that Hancock County residents and taxpayers pay 63 percent of the total tax bill in Mississippi.

The President's suggested budget does not tell the story, the Council's statement said; since it does not include social security programs financed by payroll taxes dedicated to these purposes, which do not appear in the budget proper.

EXACT MILLIONS

"These social welfare programs already exact millions of dollars annually from Mississippi wage and salary earners in the form of taxes deducted from their pay-checks," the Council's statement added. "If Congress should approve the President's new proposals, payroll taxes will rise sharply when the new programs get in full operation. The people of Mississippi should be fully aware of these facts as to the cost of such programs. The Council has made the breakdown of approximate costs to all counties so taxpayers may know the proposed tax burden as outlined by the President."

GIVE DINNER

Mrs. Ella Maybin and Mrs. Emily Lacoste entertained at a dinner Monday, January 16 complimentary to Miss Mary Weingerter. The guest list included the hostesses, the honoree and Mrs. Wilson Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Lizana, Jr., and children, Gesina and Florian spent Sunday with Mr. Lizana's parents at their home on Main Street.

Mrs. Lorenço Frigerio and her sister, Miss Irma Hardy, have returned from New Orleans where they spent two weeks.

Rev. and Mrs. John T. Dearing and children, David and Mary Kay, left Sunday for Hadesboro where they will reside in the future.

Buick's New York Show Stopper

HIGHLIGHTING BUICK'S exhibit at General Motors "Mid-Century Motorama" in New York's Waldorf-Astoria was the new Roadmaster 130, a six-passenger, four-door sedan. An outstanding feature of this new tourback styling with Buick pioneered Riviera line is the generous trunk area in which the tire rests in an upright position adding greatly to available luggage space. In addition to its luxurious appointments and sleek lines its beauty has been further enhanced by the greater use of chrome in the upper part of the body and the increased use of glass. Greater safety results from increased driver vision to the rear through the wrap-around back window. The chassis has been lengthened four inches to accommodate the longer, roomier body while the over-all length of the car is less than that of the previous Roadmaster models, due to the use of Buick's exclusive combination bumper and grille front end. Dynaflow, Buick's all-oil transmission, is standard equipment on all Roadmaster models.

Your spine controls the health of your body. Every organ of your body receives life-giving impulses from nerves leading from your spine. Each nerve branches from your spine and if it is not interrupted, you will be in perfect health. But if your spine should become out of line and exert pressure upon the tiny little nerves as they branch through the organ that depends upon that particular nerve for its mental impulse. If there should be a pressure upon the nerve leading to the heart, heart trouble will exist; if it is to the kidneys, kidney trouble, Bright's Disease, Rheumatism, etc.; if to the stomach, indigestion, ulcers, etc.; if to the female organs, female troubles, suppressed menstruation, etc. CHIROPRACTIC CORRECTS these conditions and many others by restoring the full flow of nerve energy over the nerve trunks, which is necessary for normal health.
